

A Major Offering of Obsolete, Colonial and Confederate Currency and Related Items

Fixed Price List #0694 Featuring Obsolete Currency Part 1 - ALABAMA TO NEW YORK. $2

Fully Illustrated and Featuring Over 1,500 Notes.
Correctly Graded, Reasonably Priced and Completely Guaranteed!

In 1880, when Roland Smythe first began to research obsolete securities, he was occasionally presented with obsolete currency as well. These notes were issued by banks, railroads, states, insurance companies and various other corporations. They stopped circulating after the War Between the States. Smythe's clients needed to know if the notes could be redeemed.

Today, over one hundred years later, we are still involved with obsolete banknotes, servicing collector's needs through our grand format auctions and fully-illustrated price lists.

Fixed Price List #0694 contains over fifteen hundred notes, hundreds of illustrations, and a wealth of interesting information. Whether you are an advanced collector or a first-time buyer, we feel sure you will enjoy this opportunity to add something nice to your collection.

Odd-Denomination Notes of the Ohio Frontier Disappeared Into The Night!

One dark, stormy evening in 1819 a small band of local hoodlums broke into the offices of Ezra Griswold, tavern owner and entrepreneur in the Ohio frontier town of Worthington. The crooks used Griswold's own printing press to run off a batch of private scrip notes.

Griswold decided to replace his original series of scrip notes with an entirely new issue of high quality notes, ordered from the prestigious Philadelphia engraving firm of Murray, Draper & Fairman. His order specified 50¢, 25¢, 12½¢ and 6¼¢ notes, 20 notes to the sheet.

These unusual denominations were needed because coins were rarely encountered on the frontier. Change notes circulated along with a small supply of old Spanish reales and other assorted foreign coins and tokens. Each eight reales equalled one U.S. silver dollar. Two reales, or "two bits" were the equivalent of a U.S. quarter dollar. One bit equalled twelve and a half cents. The Niles Register of 1816 stated that Griswold had over $25,000 worth of notes in circulation at the height of his career, but three years later he was deep in debt, and his notes were no longer commercially accepted. He still had a nice supply of unused notes in his safe. 170 years later the notes turned up at the American Numismatic Association Show in Pittsburgh in the hands of a local Ohio dealer.

We were fortunate enough to purchase the entire lot at a favorable price and now we can pass the savings on to you.

A Rare Glimpse Into The Life of A Civil War "Shinplaster"

Collector's today are just beginning to appreciate the beauty and diversity of paper money that circulated during the War Between the States. As the War progressed, less and less small change was evident in circulation. In the North, metallic cent sized tokens and "Store Cards", helped fill the void. In the South, production facilities were much scarcer. Local print shops employed whatever paper could be found. Many merchants issued change bills nicknamed "Shinplasters" which not only served to advertise of their business wares, but also yielded a profit on the difference in printing costs and the face value. Further profit resulted if the notes were lost or destroyed and not redeemed. Many notes were marked "Redeemable in Confederate Notes", eventually rendering them worthless, much to the benefit of the issuers. Some notes ended up in court.

Marcus Walker was a wealthy merchant and plantation owner from Franklin, Louisiana, seat of the St. Mary Parish. Walker engaged J. Manouvrier, also a printing contractor to the Confederacy (he printed the T-12 1861 $5 note), to produce a rather ornate series of 25¢, 50¢ and $1 notes. The 25¢ note features a steamboat, the 50¢ note a train and the $1 denomination an eagle. All three have ornate blue underprints.

These notes were readily accepted as money in local business channels. In fact, when the war ended a gentlemen named George Brunner had $72.75 worth of them in his possession. When Brunner asked Walker to redeem the notes, Walker attempted to do so with worthless Confederate notes! Mr. Brunner was not pleased. The two met again, this time in Justice Court, Ward No. 3, Parish of St. Mary. Marcus Walker contended that he was following the letter of the law. The notes he issued stated "Will pay to the bearer...In Confederate Notes". Brunner stated he received these "Shinplasters" as promissory notes, signed by Walker and purporting to be good money. The subsequent court decision was in Brunner's favor. Justice McKerral ruled that the value of Confederate notes at the time the bills were issued was what Brunner was entitled to receive. Walker had to pay Brunner $47.85 in good funds, as $1.50 in Confederate money at the time of issue was worth one good dollar.

Fifty notes used as evidence in the court proceeding survived. Each has "Filed Oct 27, 1866 Rob't W. Allen Clerk" written on the back. Due to their considerable circulation and use as evidence (they were glued on the left of the face to paper) the grading is a bit difficult.

Darley's "The Polar Bear Attack" Captured on Obsolete Note

By the early 1860's intaglio engraving and security printing had reached a highly artistic and technological state. The larger and more prosperous banks engaged the newly formed American Banknote Company, created from the seven major predecessor firms that produced security printing for the nation, to print banknotes that were not only virtually impossible to counterfeit, but employed engraved art from some of the most noteworthy artisans of the period. The Continental Bank of Boston was no exception. This institution became part of the National Banking System and redeemed almost all of its issued obsolete banknotes. These notes feature outstanding engravings, deep green tints and micro-lettering which exemplify the work of the American Banknote Company to the highest degree.

The $3 denomination features one of the classic vignettes, rarely seen on notes, in all of obsolete currency: The Polar Bear Attack by F.O.C. Darley. Darley was one of the foremost illustrators of the day producing illustrations for the literary works of Dickens, Hawthorne, Longfellow and numerous others. Publishers found it quite prestigious to have their editions associated with his art. The scene of this savage polar bear attack on four defenseless men is based on the 1855 Grinnell Expedition. The men attempted to trace the steps of the ill-fated John Franklin, an English explorer from the early part of the century who explored the Arctic and disappeared with over 100 crew members. Franklin's disappearance was one of the enigmas of the day and was not fully explained until quite recently. The fierceness of the attack, and the harshness of the arctic climate are captured beautifully by engraver DeWitt Clinton Hay.

Due to a fortunate acquisition, we are able to offer these rarely seen "Polar Bear" notes and the other denominations from this extremely scarce series, either singly, in sets or as an uncut sheet.

Nebraska obsolete notes offer some of the prettiest notes at the most affordable prices in the obsolete field. The "Wildcat" the "Wildcat" Banking in a state, the more attractive the notes (to lend legitimacy to out of area merchants) and due to their later worthlessness, the more available they are to today's collectors.

Omaha City

Fifteen Cent Notes From One of the World's Most Famous Restaurants

Located In the heart of the financial center of the world, just a few short blocks from the New York Stock Exchange, is one of the world's most famous restaurants. Delmonico's has been serving bankers, brokers, politicians, lawyers and the rest of Wall Street's elite for over one hundred and forty years.

During the 1850's Delmonico's and many other merchants found it convenient and profitable to issue their own change notes. We always enjoy owning nice obsolete scrip notes, especially when they are odd denominations such as fifteen cents. We particularly enjoy owning notes from famous places, and that's why we bought this group of Delmonico notes. The checks, signed by C. Delmonico himself, are a perfect match for the notes.

CONDITION TERMINOLOGY

Gem Unc. (Gem Uncirculated) - The perfect uncirculated item, clean, bright, vivid, crisp (where paper permits), well-margined, unimprovable, without folds

Choice Unc. (Choice Uncirculated) - A lovely uncirculated item, having only a hint of aging or unevenness of the margins, face or back, or narrow margins which take it out of the "Gem" class.

Unc. (Uncirculated) - As made or issued, but margins may be poor, the item lightly aged, with border trimming.

Choice AU (Choice Almost Uncirculated) - Essentially a mishandled uncirculated item with deficiencies like a corner fold, teller counting smudge or count wrinkling.

AU (Almost Uncirculated) - There is one fold, a teller counting smudge or counting wrinkling present.

EF (Extremely Fine) - An item which may, at first glance, look uncirculated, but which has several petty folds, or a hard crease down the center perhaps with corner folds. Crisp, bright, vivid and pleasing, the paper as made, permitting.

VF (Very Fine) - Typically an item marked by moderate quarterfolds with perhaps a few other signs of handling. Should be clean, not seriously aged, torn, or pinholed.

F (Fine) - The last grade of an item in which the paper still has body. The folds are numerous and the design is beginning to show signs of soiling wear.

VG (Very Good) - A well-circulated item, complete, unimpaired except for petty tears and splits, pin holes, some surface splitting along heavy folds and soiling.

Good - An even more heavily circulated item with body holes, petty tears and splits, very soiled and tired, scarcely legible.

Fair - Heavily worn, split, holed, up to 10% gone, legibility seriously impaired.

Poor - A mere remnant, tattered and torn, scarcely readable with typically more than 10% of its surface area gone.

Aht (before a grade) - A shade below the grade it precedes.

Plus or + (following a grade) - A shade better than the grade.

VF-EF (hyphen between grades) - The grade is about halfway between the two grades shown.

VF/Good (slash between two grades) - Face and back are two different grades. The grade preceding the slash is for the face. The grade following is for the back.

Hungarian Fund Notes

In early 1848, the peoples of the Austrian Empire rose in revolt against the repressive regime of Prince Metternich. The long time foreign minister fled to Britain and a new Emperor promised a constitution and liberal reforms. However, as soon as Prince Schwarzenburg was able to crush the revolts in Vienna and Prague and stave off the Italians, the promises were rescinded and a campaign was launched to crush the Hungarians, who had reasserted the independence of their ancient Kingdom. Outraged by the broken promises of Francis Joseph I, the rebels in Budapest declared their land an independent republic with Lajos Kossuth (1802-1894) as first president.

The Austrians, unable to reassert their authority, then called in the forces of the ultra reactionary Czar Nicholas I, whose brutal Russian troops plundered the countryside and summarily executed many who were found in arms. And those whom the Russians did not kill were executed by the Austrians. Kossuth escaped via Turkey and went to England, seeking aid. Britain and France while sympathetic (a British crowd mobbed one of the more brutal Austrian generals who was foolish enough to show his face in London) were not prepared to go to war.

Hoping to raise funds in America, Kossuth authorized the issue of these loan certificates to raise funds for a comeback. While nearly a million dollars were sold, most of the money had to be used for the relief of Hungarian refugees living in Turkey. Kossuth, therefore, had to spend the rest of his long life in exile. Such notes are a sad memorial of Hungary's efforts to be free and explain the bitterness of the Hungarians when Russian troops again suppressed their liberties in 1956.

High Grade Ad Notes Make A Great Addition To Any Collection

"Ad" notes are advertisements that are intentionally designed to look like bank notes. They are a time-tested advertising method that is still in use today because almost everyone has a hard time throwing away anything that looks like real money.

One of the finest ad notes we have had the pleasure of owning was issued by A.L. Halsted & Son in the 1840's or 1850's. They were importers and dealers of hardware, cutlery and related products.

The note appears, at first glance, to be a $30 bill. Vulcan, the subject of the central vignette, is found on genuine notes. He was worshipped as the god of blacksmiths and he represents strength and durability, appropriate qualities for hardware products. The word "FIFTY" is spelled out in large letters at left, and there are three other "50" counters. The note is the same size and shape as genuine currency of the period, and the paper is exactly the same. There are subtle differences that would inform a bank teller or merchant that this was not a real bank note, but those differences would not be apparent to the an ordinary citizen. The note has a denomination, but the word "Dollars" or "Cents" does not appear. There are signatures, but they are printed, not hand-signed. The mottoes around the counters are Halsted's address, not a promise of redemption.

These Halsted notes, fresh and bright as the day they were printed, will make a wonderful addition to any collection of obsoletes.

Revere Codfish Bills

Prior to the Revolution, Paul Revere, a prominent local silversmith, of French Protestant extraction, engraved various broadsides, such as the "Boston Massacre" promoting the patriotic cause. He organized the intelligence system that thwarted the British raids on Lexington and Concord, and led to the fighting in both towns, which formally began the Revolution. As a reward for his services, Revere was given currency printing contracts by New Hampshire and Massachusetts. His New Hampshire notes are Extremely Rare; his "Sword in Hand" notes, with a man wielding a sword and carrying a copy of Magna Charta (1775-1776), were succeeded in 1776 and again in 1778 by a new issue of notes using the symbol of the colony, a codfish, as part of its decorative material. The codfish fisheries off Newfoundland were an important source of revenue for the Colony of Massachusetts Bay, and a codfish model was suspended from the ceiling of the "General Court" (now the State Assembly of Massachusetts). Revere is thought to have used this as a model for the codfish on these notes. Since the Revere Broadside and Silverware are unavailable, as are most of the Sword in Hand notes, the "Codfish bills" are among the few samples of this early patriot's handiwork available to the collector. The run which follows is of exceptional quality.
